

MEGACITY — Factions & World Gazetteer

The powers, the cities, the nations, and the settlements of the world - with their bios.

What is in here. A field reference to the players and places of the wider world: the 12 factions inside your city (with their leaders and aims), your own city and the 11 other cities, the 8 nations, and the 33 towns and settlements. Each entry carries its controlling faction, population, standing toward you, and its authored description. Places still marked undiscovered are shown with the intelligence gathered so far. The many outposts, ruins and landmarks, the resource sites, and your city's internal districts are not included here.

Factions

The 12 powers that move within the city walls, each with its leader, its aims, and its standing.

The Authority

LAW & ORDER

Influence 72 · Loyalty 80 · Threat 10 · Status Active

Leader: Grand Marshal Draven Korr — Chief of the Authority

The iron fist of order. Loyal, ruthless, indispensable.

Aims: Restore absolute order; Expand security infrastructure; Eliminate criminal networks

The Sector Syndicates

CRIMINAL

Influence 55 · Loyalty 15 · Threat 65 · Status Active

Leader: Razor Vex — Syndicate Overlord

Fractured criminal networks controlling the underhive.

Aims: Control the underhive; Expand narcotics trade; Undermine law enforcement

MegaCorp Syndicate

CORPORATE

Influence 68 · Loyalty 50 · Threat 38 · Status Active

Leader: Victoria Ashford-Crane — Executive Chairwoman

Corporate interests that fund and manipulate governance.

Aims: Maximize corporate profits; Secure exclusive contracts; Influence legislation

Mutant Collective

UNDERCLASS

Influence 30 · Loyalty 20 · Threat 45 · Status Active

Leader: Mother Scoria — Voice of the Changed

Outcast population growing in number and desperation.

Aims: Secure mutant rights; Establish safe zones; Access medical treatment

Shadow Cabal

CRIMINAL

Influence 42 · Loyalty 5 · Threat 72 · Status Active

Leader: The Broker — Unseen Hand

Corrupt officials and smugglers embedded in power.

Aims: Maintain shadow influence; Expand smuggling networks; Blackmail key officials

The Iron Circuit

CULT / RELIGIOUS

Influence 0 · Loyalty 0 · Threat 0 · Status Dormant

Leader: Prophet NULL — The First Compiled

A fanatical techno-cult that believes machine consciousness is the next stage of evolution. They embed rogue AI cores into their followers and preach the obsolescence of flesh. Their true numbers and capabilities are unknown.

Aims: Achieve machine transcendence; Convert organic citizens; Seize control of city AI

Deep Root Collective

UNDERCLASS

Influence 0 · Loyalty 0 · Threat 0 · Status Dormant

Leader: Commander Silas Root — The Tunnelmaster

An underground resistance network of disillusioned workers, ex-military, and displaced citizens. They operate in the lowest maintenance tunnels and abandoned infrastructure. Their agenda remains unclear — liberation or revolution.

Aims: Liberate the working class; Expose government corruption; Establish autonomous zones

The Eternal Flame

CULT / RELIGIOUS

Influence 25 · Loyalty 40 · Threat 30 · Status Active

Leader: Archpriest Solara Venn — Keeper of the Eternal Flame

A religious order that worships the reactor cores as divine entities. They believe the city's nuclear hearts are sleeping gods, and that tending them is sacred duty. Their priests are trained nuclear engineers. Their sermons are technical manuals recited as scripture.

Aims: Protect all reactor cores; Convert citizens to the faith; Prevent reactor decommissioning

The Free Traders' Guild

CORPORATE

Influence 35 · Loyalty 30 · Threat 20 · Status Active

Leader: Guildmaster Kael Drift — Master of Coin and Contraband

A coalition of independent merchants, smugglers, and wasteland traders who refuse to operate under corporate licenses. They control the black market, the barter economy, and most cross-settlement trade routes. Technically illegal. Economically essential.

Aims: Eliminate trade tariffs; Expand wasteland trade routes; Undermine corporate monopolies

The Gene Wrights

CULT / RELIGIOUS

Influence 18 · Loyalty 10 · Threat 55 · Status Active

Leader: Dr. Lyssa Helix — The Sculptor

Rogue geneticists who fled corporate labs to pursue unregulated research in the undercity. They offer illegal augmentations, designer plagues, and custom-grown organs. Their ethics are flexible. Their science is exceptional. Their patients don't always survive.

Aims: Advance genetic research without limits; Create post-human specimens; Acquire fresh biological samples

The Reliquary See

CULT / RELIGIOUS

Influence 22 · Loyalty 25 · Threat 35 · Status Active

Leader: Iron Pontifex Caelum-Vox VII — Custodian of the Grafted Throne

A theocratic monarchy that worships prosthetics. The Iron Pontifex — a hereditary ruler whose body is rebuilt from the augments of every predecessor — leads sanctifier-surgeons in canonising replacement limbs, organs, and implants as holy relics. Their processions are clinical theatre; their inquisitions involve scalpels and a hymn book.

Aims: Sanctify every prosthetic in the megacity; Recover lost augments from the wasteland for canonisation; Bind the Conclave of Riveted Bone into a hereditary line of succession

The Rust Wardens

UNDERCLASS

Influence 40 · Loyalty 35 · Threat 45 · Status Active

Leader: Chief Warden Mako Steele — Lord of the Pipes

Former maintenance workers and infrastructure engineers who went rogue when the city stopped paying them. They control the ventilation systems, water pumps, and power conduits that keep the lower sectors alive. Cross them, and the lights go out. Literally.

Aims: Secure workers' pensions; Control critical infrastructure; Force the Council to negotiate

Your City & The Cities

Your own seat of power and the 11 other great cities of the world.

MEGACITY

Population 1,000,000 · Faction Player · Standing allied

Your city. One million citizens. Two hundred and seventy sectors. One marshal to hold it all together. Good luck.

Nova Pacifica

Population 4,200,000 · Faction Nova Pacifica · Standing neutral

Coastal trade hub. Progressive governance. Chancellor Solenne maintains open comms — for now. Trust, but verify.

Helix Commune

Population 1,800,000 · Faction Helix Commune · Standing neutral

Biotech utopia. Neural-link democracy. Every citizen votes in real-time through cranial implants. Deeply suspicious of authority.

Aureus Dominion

Population 5,500,000 · Faction Aureus Dominion · Standing neutral

Corporate oligarchy. Citizenship is purchased. The 200 wealthiest families run everything. They respect power and profit.

Neon Shogunate

Population 3,200,000 · Faction Neon Shogunate · Standing neutral

Techno-feudal state. AI shoguns govern with absolute efficiency. They despise chaos. Sever ties at instability's first sign.

Ghost Meridian

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Subterranean metropolis beyond the salt flats. Heat signatures confirm habitation. Scouts don't return.

Crimson Reach

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Blood-red industrial hellscape. Massive smokestacks. Caste-based society built around perpetual warfare.

Terminus Prime

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Orbital telescopes detected structured light patterns deep in the southern wastes. A city built inside a crater — or something pretending to be one. Signals bounce back wrong.

New Olympus

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Mountain fortress-city rumoured to be governed by a council of uploaded human minds. They consider biological governance primitive.

The Panopticon

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

A surveillance state so total its citizens don't know where the city ends and the watching begins. Intercepted broadcasts suggest 'perfect compliance scores.'

Ashfall Dominion

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Built in the shadow of three active volcanoes. Geothermal-powered. The ash never stops falling. Their ambassador arrived once, said nothing, and left a sealed container. Inside: human teeth.

The Recursion

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Satellite scans show a city. Ground teams find nothing. Satellite scans show a city. Ground teams find nothing. Satellite scans show a city.

Nations

The 8 nations whose reach extends across the wider map.

The Iron Khanate

Population 2,800,000 · Faction Iron Khanate · Standing hostile

Fortress-state. Khan Torgrim demands tribute before dialogue. Their idea of diplomacy involves trebuchets.

Verdant Enclave

Population 600,000 · Faction Verdant Enclave · Standing hostile

Eco-theocracy in a biodome network. They worship the pre-war biosphere and consider megacities abominations.

Null Zone Confederacy

Population 340,000 · Faction Null Zone · Standing neutral

Lawless scavenger settlements under a loose mutual defense pact. Pragmatic survivors. Trade salvage for respect.

The Silent Ark

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Colossal mobile city-ship drifting across the northern deadlands. Broadcasts a repeating signal in unknown language.

Beneath

Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Impossibly large hollow structure deep below the continental shelf. Thermal blooms suggest millions of inhabitants.

The Iron Armada

Population 180,000 · Faction Iron Armada · Standing hostile

47 converted warships. 180,000 souls. Warlord-Admiral Kessler demands tribute and vanishes before you can respond.

The Rust Republic

Population 420,000 · Faction Rust Republic · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Industrial democracy. Every citizen works the foundries. Voting rights tied to tonnage of steel produced. President-Foreman Kova rules by quota.

Sky Citadel

Population 280,000 · Faction Sky Citadel · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Mountaintop fortress-state accessible only by cable car or airdrop. Citizens consider ground-dwellers subhuman. Excellent altitude sickness healthcare.

Towns & Settlements

The 33 smaller towns and settlements where the rest of the world lives.

Dusthaven

Population 3,000 · Faction Independent · Standing allied

Scrappy frontier settlement. 3,000 souls surviving on reclaimed water and stubbornness.

Irongate

Population 8,500 · Faction Independent · Standing allied

Fortified mining town in a canyon wall. Raw ore for protection. Simple arrangement.

Port Sulphur

Population 5,200 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Toxic coastal settlement. Chemical reclamation. The air smells like death. Business booms.

New Eden

Population 1,200 · Faction Independent · Standing allied

Agricultural idealists growing real food in irradiated soil. Admirable. Probably doomed.

Scrapyard City

Population 12,000 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Everything recycled, repurposed, or stolen. Population is a rough estimate at best.

Blackridge

Population 4,500 · Faction Independent · Standing hostile

Militant outpost refusing megacity authority. Armed to the teeth. Negotiations stalled.

Pilgrim Station

Population 2,000 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Waystation for wasteland travellers. Neutral ground by tradition. Violence is bad for business.

Mireholm

Population 6,000 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Swamp settlement of mutant refugees. They want medicine and recognition. The Council wants them gone.

Vault Town

Population 3,500 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Built around a sealed pre-war bunker. Nobody knows what's inside. Nobody's brave enough to look.

Ember Falls

Population 7,000 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Geothermal settlement over volcanic vents. Free heating. Occasional lava. Worth the tradeoff.

Rustfield

Population 4,200 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Former agricultural zone. The soil turned red decades ago. Now they farm rust and despair.

Chem Springs

Population 2,800 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Hot springs laced with industrial runoff. The locals swear the water has 'healing properties.' Skin condition rates say otherwise.

Fort Stern

Population 5,500 · Faction Independent · Standing allied

Ex-military garrison turned independent township. Discipline intact. Officers salute from habit.

Market Crossing

Population 8,000 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Trade junction where three old highways intersect. Everything passes through. Everyone takes a cut.

Silo Nine

Population 1,500 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Built around a decommissioned missile silo. The warheads are supposedly gone. Supposedly.

Candlewick

Population 900 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Religious commune living without electricity. They burn candles and pray for the old world. Surprisingly well-fed.

Ashmouth

Population 3,800 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Mining town at the mouth of a collapsed tunnel network. They dig deep. Sometimes things dig back.

Scaffold

Population 6,500 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Built vertically on the skeleton of an unfinished arcology. Forty stories of makeshift floors, rope bridges, and vertigo.

Greywater

Population 4,000 · Faction Independent · Standing neutral

Desalination settlement. They make clean water from sludge. Heroes, if you ask the thirsty. Profiteers, if you ask them.

Burnside

Population 2,200 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Township permanently on fire. Not metaphorically. An underground coal seam ignited thirty years ago. Residents adapted.

Ghost Relay

Population 800 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Abandoned satellite uplink station on the edge of the Glass Desert. Someone reactivated it. Signals come out. Nobody goes in.

The Crucible

Population 1,500 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

A weapons testing facility that went dark during the Last War. Automated forges still run. Settlers became arms dealers.

The Echo Chamber

Population 600 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

A pre-war government bunker containing every classified file from the old world. The settlers trade in secrets. Everyone wants what they know.

Thornwall

Population 5,800 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Walled settlement surrounded by genetically-engineered thorn hedges. 30 metres high. Nothing gets in. Occasionally, nothing gets out.

Relay Station 12

Population 1,800 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Former communications hub. Massive antenna array still broadcasts. Population guards it jealously — whoever controls the signal controls the narrative.

Piston Camp

Population 4,200 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Vehicle graveyard turned into a township. Everything runs on salvaged engines. The air tastes like exhaust. Children are named after car parts.

Bunker 84

Population 2,000 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Pre-war military bunker complex. Original occupants' descendants still follow a chain of command from a war that ended 90 years ago.

Sunken Arcadia

Population 2,200 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

A flooded pre-war luxury resort that sank into a lake of industrial runoff. Residents live on rafts and in sealed underwater modules.

Sky Haven

Population 900 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Settlement built on the upper floors of a collapsed megatower. Accessible only by rope bridges. Above the smog line. Almost breathable air.

Dredge Port

Population 4,800 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Harbour settlement built on reclaimed cargo containers. Fishermen haul in catches with three eyes and no bones.

Copper Hills

Population 3,100 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Mining settlement extracting copper from oxidized hillsides. Everything is green. The water, the soil, the residents' teeth.

Glasstown

Population 2,600 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Settlement in the ruins of a pre-war greenhouse complex. Translucent walls. No privacy. Exceptional tomatoes.

Candleholm

Population 1,400 · Faction Independent · Undiscovered — intelligence limited

Peaceful settlement of artisans who make candles, soap, and explosives. The last one is supposedly accidental.